Jeffersonian Simplicity Very Properly at a Discount.

The Happy Couple to Enjoy the Honeymoon at Deer Park.

A New Treaty Proposed to Settle the Fisheries Dispute.

A Constitutional Amendment Proposed to Prohibit Polygamy.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Other weddings have been held at the White House, eight in all, but never before today has the highest dignitary in the land bowed his head within its historic walls to receive the blessing of the church upon his union in the holy bonds of matrimony. From the very dawn of the wedding day the city seemed alive to the approaching event; little knots of elders talked it over on the sidewalks in front of the hotels, and the yellowed pages of the old almanacs were turned to the wedding day of the city's history.

The still and murky haze of the early forenoon had now given place to clear skies and warm, southerly breezes, and the yellowed pages of the old almanacs were turned to the wedding day of the city's history. The still and murky haze of the early forenoon had now given place to clear skies and warm, southerly breezes, and the yellowed pages of the old almanacs were turned to the wedding day of the city's history.

DETAILS OF THE CEREMONY.
About half past six o'clock the wedding guests began to arrive. The first arrival was Secretary Lamar, he was closely followed by Rev. Dr. Sunderland and wife and during the next few minutes there came in quick succession Postmaster General Vilas, Secretary and Mrs. Endicott, Secretary Manning and his wife. After removing their wraps in the state dining room all the guests proceeded to the blue room, and were received by Miss Rose Cleveland. For a few minutes the guests chatted gayly, but all conversation was quickly suspended at 7:15 p. m. when the selected orchestra from the Marine band, stationed in the corridor, struck up the familiar strains of the wedding march from Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream, and all eyes were turned to the doorway to catch the first glimpse of the coming bride and groom.

THE BRIDE AND GROOM ENTERED the blue room and took a position near its southern wall, which was completely hidden from sight by a mass of nodding palms, tropical grasses and an endless variety of choice flowers. The crystal chandelier poured a flood of mellow radiance upon the scene and the colors of the massive banks of scarlet begonias and royal jacquet roses, mingled with the blue and silver tints of the frescoed walls and ceiling, gave a warm and glowing tone to the whole brilliant interior. The delicate ivory shades of the bride's wedding gown found an exquisite setting in the masses of crimson roses immediately beyond. The president was in full evening dress, with tawny collar, fawn necktie and white studs. A hush fell upon the assembly as Dr. Sunderland stepped forward to his position, facing the wedding couple, with Rev. William Cleveland, the president's brother, at his left hand. In a distinct voice and with deliberate utterance the doctor began a simple and beautiful

WEDDING SERVICE AS FOLLOWS:
Forasmuch as we are assembled to observe the holy rites of marriage, it is needful that we should beseech the blessing of the great God, our Father, whose institution it is, and therefore I beseech you now to follow me with with reverent hearts in prayer to Him. Almighty and Everlasting God, Father of our spirits, Father of our bodies, giver of every good and perfect gift: Thou who canst see the end from the beginning; who knowest what is best for us, Thy children, and who hast appointed the holy rite of marriage to be sacredly observed throughout all generations, regard now, we beseech Thee, Thy servant, our chief magistrate; endow him plentifully with Thy grace, and fill him with wisdom to walk in Thy ordinances; be very nigh to him in the midst of his many cares and grave responsibilities day by day. May Thy law direct him, and he Thy strength uphold him, and he Thy forever his son and shield; be Thou graciously pleased to look down upon this, Thy daughter, even as Thou didst favor Rebecca, and many other noble women who have adorned the world. May she indeed be a precious boon from God to her husband.

TO CHEER AND HELP HIM continually: a woman gifted of beauty of the Lord, and shedding the sweet influences of Christian life upon the nation in whose sight she is to dwell. Will Thou approve what we, Thy servants, come to do in Thy name, by Thy authority, and under the laws of the land in which we live; and graciously assist them, this man and this woman, who are here to be united in the bonds of holy wedlock, according to the institution of Thy word. Mercifully be pleased, Almighty God, to vouchsafe to each of them Thy grace, that they may well and truly weigh the unfulfilling vows which they are now about to make to each other in the presence of this company and before Thee; and that they may be enabled hereafter, at all times, so to live together as to rejoice in the solemnization of this union with joy, unspokeable and full of glory, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Addressing the company Dr. Sunderland said: "Marriage is honorable among all men, in that man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleave unto his wife and they twain shall be one flesh. It was constituted by our Creator in the first paradise. It was confessed by patriarch and priest, prophet and apostle. It was confirmed by teaching and adorned with the presence of the Redeemer and has been honored by all good men and women since the world began. It is therefore not to be undertaken lightly or unadvisedly, but soberly, discretely and in the fear of God. Into this holy estate this man and this woman come now to enter; if any can show just cause why they may not be lawfully united in marriage let him now speak or else hereafter forever hold his peace."

The minister then repeated the Episcopal service. The responses were made by the contracting parties in firm tones, and the ceremony was ended by Rev. William Cleveland, who pronounced the following benediction: God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost, bless, preserve and keep you. May the Lord mercifully fill you with all temporal and all spiritual blessings and grant that you may so live together in this world that in the world to come you may have life everlasting. Amen.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mrs. Folson, showing traces of deep emotion, was the first to tender her congratulations to the newly married pair. She was followed by Miss Cleveland, Rev. Mr. Cleveland, and the other relatives and friends in turn. While the congratulations were in progress the band performed the BRIDAL CHORUS AND MARCH from Lohengrin.

To this music the president and his wife led away into the state dining room. The admiring gaze of the ladies was in keeping with its majestic proportions, and its ample space and brilliant illuminations afforded an opportunity for a fitting display of the ladies' toilettes. The bride wore an enchanting wedding dress of ivory satin, simply garnished with a narrow corsage with Indian muslin crossed in Grecian folds and carried in exquisite folds of simplicity over her petticoat. The orange blossom garlands, commencing upon the veil in a superb coronet, were continued throughout the costume, and the bride's hair was pinned in a simple, yet lovely, fashion. The bride's veil was of fine lace, and she carried a long and elegant train. She carried no flowers and wore no jewelry, except an engagement ring containing a sapphire and two diamonds, and a plain gold wedding ring which had been placed on her finger before she descended the staircase.

From the east room the company proceeded, after a season of promenading and conversation, to the family dining room of the mansion, where the wedding supper was served. There was no formal order observed in the supper room, but the collation was served and the guests sat at small tables or slowly promenaded the room as they discussed and chatted over the events of the evening. Elegantly designed silver, consisting of silver boxes containing dainty pieces of the bridal cake and each one bearing a hand-painted monogram, "C. F.," were received by each guest.

While the orchestra was playing a selection the bride GENTLY SLIPPED AWAY to her room and changed her wedding dress for a silk traveling dress. She then returned to the company and was soon afterward joined by the president who had in the meantime changed his dress suit for a traveling costume. This was about 8:30 o'clock and the president and his bride said a hasty goodbye to their friends and left the White House. The carriage and as the horses started off a shower of rice was thrown on the carriage and their friends waved them a final God-speed.

The carriage was driven direct to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station, where a special train was in waiting to take the president and his bride to Deer Park. At their destination the president and his bride were wholly unaccompanied. They will probably remain at Deer Park about a week, during which time they will occupy a small cottage attached to the hotel, which has not yet opened for the season.

The guests began to leave the White House soon after the president's departure. The orchestra continued to play evening music till nearly 10 o'clock, by which time all the guests had taken their departure. A crowd of curious sightseers remained near until preparations were made to close for the night.

Shot His Brother.
STEELEVILLE, Mo., June 2.—A terrible tragedy was enacted ten miles east of here. John W. Wright, a well-to-do farmer, shot his brother Vincent Wright, inflicting a wound from which he will probably die. His mother, who is a widow owning considerable property, later became insane, and John decided it was best to have a curator appointed for the property, and applied to the probate court for that purpose. A jury adjourned the matter, and the brother took exception thereto. Finally John consented that Vincent should be appointed guardian and curator, and he was ordered to give bond. This he failed to do, and the court decided to appoint some one else. Vincent declared he would take an appeal to the circuit court, and seemed greatly enraged. The next day John went to his mother's residence and found Vincent awaiting him there. As he drove up in his buggy his brother ran out and attacked him and undertook to pull him from the vehicle. When Vincent caught the reins with his left hand and with his right raised a stone at his brother's head and caught up at her to throw John while the institution of marriage as hereinbefore established, but otherwise the regulation within each state of marriage and divorce and civil and criminal jurisdiction of these subjects shall belong to the several states as heretofore. Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

A Constitutional Amendment to Prohibit Polygamy.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Senator Culum today introduced in the senate a joint resolution proposing the following amendment to the constitution:

The only institution or contract of marriage within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction, shall be that of the union in marriage of one man with one woman, and bigamy or polygamy is forever prohibited, any law, custom, form or ceremony, civil or religious, to the contrary notwithstanding. No states shall pass any law or allow any custom or ceremony of marriage, except in obedience to and in conformity with the institution of marriage as hereinbefore established, but otherwise the regulation within each state of marriage and divorce and civil and criminal jurisdiction of these subjects shall belong to the several states as heretofore. Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

A Pretty Kettle of Fish.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Representative Bontelle received a telegram today from Esposito to the effect that the dominion collectors of customs threaten to seize American boats if they buy her. ring from fishermen on provincial shores to be used for fishing in the United States. A large business of this kind has been carried on at Esposito and vicinity, and all the fish being brought from provincial waters. American boatmen are afraid to continue the traffic, and large numbers of people on both sides of the line are affected. Mr. Bontelle and Senator Hale this morning called on Secretary Bayard, who promised to take immediate steps to ascertain the facts of this reported denial of the ordinary privileges of commerce, but he remarked that, as diplomatic negotiations on this subject must be conducted through the British naval government, they are necessarily slow.

Disraeli as a Home Ruler.
LONDON, June 2.—The land bill has been again postponed. It will be taken up June 7. The Daily News produces the speech made by Benjamin Disraeli in the house of commons in 1884. Disraeli in summing up the Irish question said: "Ireland is teeming with a starving people and suffers from an absentee aristocracy, an alien church and the wealthiest executive in the world. The only remedy is a revolution, which is prevented by connection with powerful England, therefore England is logically in an odious position, being the cause of misery in Ireland. The duty of the English minister therefore is to effect by his policy all the changes which a revolution would do for the country. This is the Irish question in its integrity. The moment you have a strong executive, religiously and politically, and a just administration, you'll have order in Ireland."

Mormon Crusade.
GENEVA, June 2.—The "Latter Day Saints," who lately invaded Switzerland have already pitched their tents in twenty or thirty places, notably Bern, Basle, Geneva, Zurich and Schaffhausen, where they master several hundred strong, and have levied many a man. Public attention was some time ago directed to this new and odious crusade. The increase of the nuisance has now grown alarming, and the Swiss are beginning to clamor for the ejection of the invaders. The headquarters of the Mormon army at present seems to be at Bern, whence the movement is gradually spreading to the rest of Switzerland and Germany.

A Terrible Accident.
DENVER, June 2.—An Aspen special to the Republican says: This evening a party of young ladies climbed to the top of the five bell tower, sixty feet high, for the purpose of obtaining a good view of the city. Miss Epps Stewart stepped to the edge of the tower and leaned against the corner post and was viewing the country, when the janitor, not knowing of the presence of the ladies, seized the bell rope to call a den of the great bell startled Miss Stewart, and, losing her balance, she plunged from the dizzy height to the pavement. She was immediately picked up and found to be fatally injured.

The Senate.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—The senate today discussed the Northern Pacific bill, but took no action on the same, held an executive session and adjourned.

A Prominent Citizen Gone.
DENVER, June 2.—Hon. Frank Tilford, a prominent California and Nevada pioneer, died here this evening of congestion of the liver.

A New Fishery Treaty Suggested.
LONDON, June 2.—The correspondent of the New York Herald cables that paper as follows: The discussion in America with regard to the fisheries question has greatly quickened the interest felt in the subject by the British government. This afternoon Mr. Cleburn Morgan, under secretary of state for the colonies, said: "Lord Granville, Lord Salisbury and I, myself, are still most anxious to arrange things in a friendly and sensible way. That such a way exists I personally have no doubt. Though I have no authority to enter into details, I would be quite willing to see a new treaty to take the place of the old one, but the United States senate seems to BAR THE WAY.

The relations between the United States and England are most cordial, but this is a three-cornered question. We cannot give Canada the cold shoulder. I hold strong views in regard to England's relations to her colonies. We must stand by Canada."

Asked whether he thought the suggested new treaty should be based on the principle of equal rights, Mr. Morgan replied: "I am not at liberty to state. But let us sweep away the old treaty or we shall drift into trouble. To do this, a meeting between the United States, Canada and England would have to be arranged. I should be happy if a conference could be arranged, say in London. I feel sure the Canadian ministry would approach the matter in a reasonable spirit."

The dispatches from the United States government bearing on the question which left America on the 21st inst. are not expected to arrive till June 2.

OF Interest to Land Owners.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Comptroller Durham of the treasury department, has rendered a decision in which he holds that under the act of June 10, 1880, double minimum excess paid for purchases of government land, the original purchase and not to the transferee, where the transfer was made after the passage of the act. This decision reverses a decision of Comptroller Lawrence, his predecessor.

In the House.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—The house spent the day discussing the eleomargarine bill. It was reported from the committee of the whole to the house with the understanding that a vote will be taken on the same tomorrow.

A Happy Day Makes No Difference.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—The president today vetoed three more pension bills.
